FOR YOUR ENTERTAINMENT

MASTER OF CEREMONIES:

ROSS DEATH. Ross lives in Lexington, Kentucky and has been piping for 19 years. His association with The Louisville Pipe Band goes back to 1999 and includes a memorable trip to the World Pipe Band Championships in 2000. He is a key player in the central Kentucky Celtic music scene and has held leadership positions within the pipe bands in that area. Ross has attended the North American Academy of piping. When not piping, Ross sings and plays guitar in a popular Lexington based acoustic group, Travelin' Light. Despite a busy schedule in Lexington, Ross still manages to get in an annual performance or two with the Louisville Pipe Band.

THE ST. LUKE'S CELTIC BAND

The St. Luke's Celtic Band is comprised of a number of young and talented string players who are currently playing with the Louisville Youth Symphony Orchestra. When not studying classical pieces, they enjoy bowing the varied and upbeat Celtic Tunes as part of the Celtic Band at St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Anchorage, Kentucky. Lisa Lewis, a talented organist and the music director at the church, founded and directs this group, which has played at a number of different venues in Louisville as well as at special services at St. Luke's Church and for the Episcopal Diocese of Kentucky. www.stlukesanchorage.org

JOYCE DEDDENS

A founding member of the Society, she has been teaching Scottish Country Dancing since the early nineteen eighties and is currently leader of the local branch. She earned her preliminary and full certificates at Brock University in St. Catherine's, Ontario. Under her tutelage, an ensemble from the Louisville Scottish Country Dancing Society will be demonstrating their skills as they have done so often for us in the past.

KAREN BRUMLEY

Karen will be leading the Haggis procession. A native of Louisville, she is a professional full-time piper and instructor. She has won many competitions in several states and currently serves as the president of the Louisville Pipe Band. She is also a published composer and is in much demand at weddings, funerals, and recitals. She has had the benefit of instruction from world-class performers and tutors and this has involved extensive travel.

Join The Scottish Society of Louisville as we celebrate the life of Robert Burns with an evening full of traditional toasts and entertainment that will satisfy your Celtic thirst for months.

The festivities will begin at 6:00 p.m. with a cash bar. Dinner activities will commence promptly at 6:30 p.m. with a traditional Scottish dinner, and there will, of course, be a serving of haggis along with wee drams of whisky for traditional toasts.

We have pulled out all the stops in order to have an evening of entertainment that is sure to please, and will last until we join hands in the circle of friendship for the singing of Auld Lang Syne.
